CareDx Issues Statement in Patent Infringement Case

2024-01-26

CareDx Found to Have Not Infringed on Patent '180
CareDx Intends to Seek Judicial Review of Decision and Monetary Damages on Patent '544
No Impact to Patient or Physician Access to AlloSure or AlloMap Testing

BRISBANE, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- CareDx, Inc. (Nasdaq: CDNA) – The Transplant Company™ focused on the discovery, development, and commercialization of clinically differentiated, high-value healthcare solutions for transplant patients and caregivers – today announced the jury verdict in the patent litigation brought by Natera, Inc. (Nasdaq: NTRA).

CareDx was found to have not infringed on Natera patent 10,655,180 (the '180 patent) and found to have infringed on Natera patent 11,111,544 (the '544 patent). During pre-trial motions, the Court dismissed an additional patent asserted by Natera against CareDx. The District of Delaware jury awarded Natera damages including lost profits of $83,679,521 and past royalty of $12,535,500 for alleged infringement by AlloSure, occurring from September 2021 through August 2023. CareDx intends to seek judicial review of the verdict.

Today's decision does not affect access and availability to CareDx's current offerings, including AlloSure® or AlloMap®. There is no motion pending for injunctive relief.

CareDx will continue to improve transplant patient care by providing innovative solutions throughout the entire patient journey.
